Tension Somewhat Eased Over the Spanish Civil War Today

SOVIETS BOMB TOWNS

British Technical Experts Start Drafting Plans for Troops' Withdrawal

International tension over the Spanish Civil War appeared to have been eased, at least for the time being, today, but political fur was expected to fly when the British Parliament holds its debate on foreign affairs.

London: Opposition is expected for the economic boycott against Japan and lifting of British arms embargo against Spain in the House of Commons. The government indicated it would reject the boycott idea. Meanwhile, with collapse of the Spanish non-intervention committee, British experts began drafting plans to withdraw foreign forces from the Spanish conflict.

Moscow: Serious repercussions was threatened. The Soviet regime has imprisoned hundreds of Italians and Germans residing in the U. S. S. R.

Bayonne, France: Insurgent troops drive toward Gijon on Spanish-Asturian front as reports reached France the Loyalist fort is in flames and in the hands of anarchists.

Shanghai: Chinese authorities claim Japanese drive toward Tachang has failed completely and that "only an earthquake or tidal wave can drive us out."

Tokyo: Fifteen Soviet planes bombed towns in Chinese Turkestan, according to an unverified report.

By Charles A. Smith

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent) LONDON, Oct. 21 — (INS) — With Europe's non-intervention effort to quarantine Spain's civil war saved from immediate collapse, British technical experts today began drafting plans for withdrawing foreign troops from the conflict.

The experts went to work on a scheme embodying appointment of a commission which is to be dispatched to Spain to seek practical means of purging Spain gradually of alien forces. Eventually, Britain hopes, all foreign troops will be withdrawn.

Among the ticklish tasks faced by the experts was that of outlining the exact functions of the international commission which will examine the foreign volunteer question.

Further evidence that Premier Mussolini's strategic retreat, by which collapse of the non-intervention committee was prevented, had gained Italy and Germany time to prolong their joint course in the Spanish war was seen by diplomatic circles which viewed the latest developments with a certain amount of skepticism.

Estimates of the time it will take for the commission, after it reaches Spain, even to ascertain the number of volunteers fighting for both loyalists and insurgents ranged from two weeks to three months.

As a result, Italy's move in agreeing to consider troop withdrawals was still regarded as one aimed at gaining time, with an ultimate victory for the Spanish rebels in view.

It was pointed out that fall of Gijon, last Biscay port controlled by the Spanish government, is now regarded as imminent. Loyalist forces there are reported in retreat, with advancing insurgents now only seven miles from their objective.

Military observers estimated fall of Gijon will release at least 100,000 insurgent troops for drives against Valencia and Barcelona. Thus, they pointed out, more time will play into Mussolini's hands.

Gijon Surrenders

Bayonne, France, Oct. 21 — Helpless and in flames, the strategic city of Gijon on the Bay of Biscay, surrendered today to the advancing insurgent army of Generalissimo Francisco Franco, according to reports reaching here.

Fragmentary wireless messages from the Oviedo Province battle front stated the Loyalist commander at Gijon had sent out emissaries to surrender to the Rebels as insurgent airplanes flew overhead and as the invaders swept into the outskirts of the city.

Candidate for School Director

Mrs. Mary K. Davis Seeks Election At General Election on November 2nd

Nominated in the Primary by the Republican voters, for a full term in the office to which she was appointed last August, Mrs. Mary K. Davis, wife of Horace N. Davis, Esq., is a candidate for School Director in the election, November 2nd.

Mrs. Davis was appointed to succeed Stanford K. Runyan, and is regarded as particularly fitted by experience for a full-term place on the School Board. For 23 years she was a teacher in the public schools of Bristol, serving for eight years as principal of the Jefferson Avenue School.

Mrs. Davis, as a member of the school committee, visits the schools and observes the work of the teachers and the general school conditions, which she reports to the School Board at its regular meetings.

Mrs. Davis graduated from the Bristol schools, and then from the State Teachers College at West Chester. She also did post-graduate work at Temple University in Philadelphia.

Active in the work of the Red Cross and Salvation Army, Mrs. Davis goes about the section in which she resides—the Third Ward—in the interest of these organizations.

SOVIET CONFIDENT ARMY COULD SWEEP EUROPE

Russia Holds Back On Knowledge Such Would Set Back Industrial System

ATTITUDE IS EXPLAINED

(Note: This is the third of three articles discussing the results of the Second Five Year Plan and the effect they are likely to have on the formation of the Third Five Year Plan.)

By James E. Brown

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent) MOSCOW, Oct. 21 — (INS) — "The Russian army could sweep Europe today, but they won't do it because they know it would set them back at least ten years both economically and industrially."

This statement, which comes from an unquotable source, was in answer to a question concerning what part rearmament had played in the Second Five Year Plan.

"Tanks, airplanes, and artillery are of the highest quality, and, more important, are being produced on a mass scale unrivaled by any other European nation."

"Added to that, they have compulsory military training in a nation of 170 million people—compared, for example, with Germany's 60 million—and this time it would be a well-disciplined, well-equipped, enthusiastic army."

The truth or untruth of the above statement may never be known, can only be proved if and when the war which Europe is dreading comes, but it is certain such considerations are entering into the formation of the Third Five Year Plan.

With the execution of Marshal Tukhachevsky and the other officers, and the alleged discovery of a widespread plot, it is inevitable any industry having the faintest military importance will be subjected to the closest watching.

But this watching will go farther. A striking summary of the attitude held by the government toward directors of factories which are behind schedule was given in the newspaper, "Heavy Industry," which, in commenting on the lagging in the iron and steel industry, said:

"Technical indices of the progress or lagging of each factory are at the same time indices of the political qualifications of the directors and heads of departments of the plants."

That industrial deficiencies are not entirely due to deliberate sabotage, however, was admitted by "Pravda," which editorially complained:

"It is difficult to distinguish where stupidity finishes and wrecking begins."

Widespread condemnation of the practice known as "self criticism" whereby each worker was allowed to criticize anything or anyone in a factory, and which so completely demoralized discipline in all of the larger plants will probably lead to its abandonment in the Third Five Year Plan.

Under this system workers held their chiefs under a sort of constant blackmail, or threat to criticize them, with the result they did entirely as they wished, worked as much or as little as they pleased, with the director completely helpless, knowing the workers would denounce him as inefficient if he insisted on discipline.

But, with the workers free to criticize, there was also some measure of responsibility placed upon them, and the director did not feel solely responsible for the success or failure of his factory. Now, if "self-criticism" is to be thrown overboard, the director.

NEED COMPETENT PERSONS AS SCHOOL DIRECTORS

At the coming election in November, two school directors will be elected to serve for six years. The school code provides that school directors shall be elected, at large, in the borough and not selected from the wards as is the case with councilmen.

The office of school director is important because so many families are directly interested in the schools. The degree of success which shall be attained by the schools depends largely upon the type of men and women selected as directors by the electorate. It naturally follows, that the election of competent and qualified directors will mean the continuance of the schools upon a high plane of efficiency, while the selection of incompetent directors will seriously endanger their standing.

In the Bristol schools over 2200 children are enrolled. When it is remembered that the seven directors who compose the school board, must provide adequate school buildings for the housing of this small army, select sixty-five capable teachers to educate the children and train them for the duties of citizenship, purchase books and supplies which they need in their daily training, and carefully work out a budget that will harmonize with the income received from taxes and the appropriation made by the State, some idea of the responsibilities of a school director may be obtained.

A director's duties are made more arduous because of the supervisory capacity assumed by the State over local boards. The Bristol school board receives from the State of Pennsylvania $22,000 a year to be applied to the payment of teachers' salaries. This is about one-seventh of what it costs to operate the schools, but because of this contribution, the State assumes that the schools are a State institution, and uses its charterable power as a club to force the local boards to comply with the laws enacted by the State. Perhaps an illustration will explain how it works. During the depression the State permitted boards to make a 10% reduction in teachers' salaries for two years, and dispense with the yearly increases provided by the school code. When the Bristol board restored the teachers' salaries at the end of the two year period, the amounts were fixed at the sums the teachers were receiving at the time the 10% reduction went into effect. Recently the State decided that all teachers whose salaries were below the maximum at that time, should have received a $100 increase, and that if the Bristol school board refused to adjust the matter promptly and give the teachers who were eligible, the belated increments, the amount would be deducted from the next installment of the appropriation due the local schools. This action cost the tax payers of Bristol over $1,000 and upset the school budget.

From this explanation it can be seen, that school directors are not free moral agents, but are so hemmed in by State restrictions, that they are often censured by the public for seeming arbitrary conduct, when no other course was open but obedience to the mandates of the State.

Councilmen have the privilege of setting the salaries

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

(Copyright, 1937, by The Baltimore Sun)

Non-Coattail Rider Wins

ONE OF THE favorite theories of Mr. Roosevelt's spokesmen has been that Senators and Representatives elected in 1932, 1934 and 1936 "rode into office on the President's coattails." This was not true of all of them, but it was true enough of a good many, particularly of those Democrats elected from normally Republican States of the West.

ACCEPTANCE of the fact has made it easy to promulgate the companion theory that once in office, unless these members of Congress cling to the Roosevelt coattails and go before the voters as staunch supporters of "our great President and his noble policies" they cannot be elected. Belief in the soundness of this idea has kept in line a good many Democrats who at heart have never been sympathetic. It is an idea which the Administration strategists industriously have sought to drill home and it was widely uttered against the insurgent Democratic Senators who opposed the court-packing bill in the last session.

THERE IS NO DOUBT that fear of being branded as anti-New Deal or anti-Roosevelt has kept many members who dislike the one and

"My services are ending today," the veteran of 32 years of State Police work declared.

"I am making my resignation official with Commissioner Foote today," confirming yesterday's exclusive International News Service disclosure, Adams said his resignation had been in Governor George H. Earle's hands "for some time."

At the same time he revealed he had decided not even to confer with Governor Earle today as scheduled.

Propose Anti-Roosevelt Convention

Washington, Oct. 21 — A national "anti-Roosevelt" convention to be held next Spring and composed of elements that oppose the New Deal—without regard to party—was proposed today by ex-Senator Walter E. Edge, of New Jersey, a one-time influential figure in Republican quarters.

Edge advanced his idea as a substitute for the Republican convention which ex-President Herbert Hoover has been advocating and which is opposed by Governor Alfred M. Landon, 1936 standard bearer, Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, and other Republican elements.

In a letter to Daniel E. Pomeroy, National Committeeman for New Jersey, Edge declared he felt that the projected conference was a worthwhile undertaking, but he expressed the belief it would not be confined to merely Republicans. All those who opposed the New Deal and "Roosevelt dictatorship," he said, will be assembled under the same tent.

REPUBLICANS RALLY AT BIG MEETING IN QUAKERTOWN

State 32% of PWA Funds Are Spent in Nebraska, While Penna. Pays the Bill

(Special to Courier)

QUAKERTOWN, Oct. 21 — Another big political rally was held last night in the high school auditorium, here, sponsored by the Quakertown Community Republican Club. About 500 heard the stirring address of Assemblyman Ellwood Turner, Republican floor leader in the Legislature at Harrisburg. Attorney Harry Schoenly, Allentown, former Comptroller of Lehigh County, also made an address. The meeting was as enthusiastic as the meeting held last week at Buckingham, when Senator Mason Owlett addressed the Loyal Republican Club of Bucks County.

A. Harry Clayton, chairman of Republican County Committee, was introduced by Attorney Gordon H. Luckenbill, of Quakertown.

Mr. Clayton presented Edward Biester, candidate for District Attorney, who in turn introduced candidate for poor director, Raymond Maurer, Perkasie; candidate for prothonotary, Ezra Miller, Newtown Township; candidate for sheriff, William Stackhouse, Hulmeville.

Mr. Biester told of the 9,200 Republicans registered majority in Bucks County and that the majority in the county on November 2nd has every indication of exceeding that figure.

Attorney Schoenly, of Allentown, told of the Republican activities in his county. He said: "Although in Lehigh there is a Democratic majority in the registration of about 6,500, we hope to elect a number of Republican candidates because of the swing toward Republicanism."

Turner, who made a very enthusiastic speech, rallied the Republican voters and told them that Republicans have an important job to do this year. He particularly pointed out that 32% of the PWA funds are spent in Nebraska for power dams, money which is largely raised from taxation from the big industrial State of Pennsylvania, and the people of Pennsylvania are paying for the New Deal expenditures but receiving only a small part of its extensive program. He was introduced by Assemblyman Wilson L. Yeakey.

PIGS IS NO LONGER PIGS

What can the federal government do about the high cost of meats? Aides of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace say there is little their department can do.

In receipt of formal protests from Representative Edith Nourse Rogers, Republican, of Massachusetts, Governor Charles F. Hurley of Massachusetts and Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York City, livestock and marketing experts of the department said that while it was anxious to be of service the federal government is without power to control prices. So a general analysis of the livestock and meat situation has been forwarded to Mayor LaGuardia and a reply to Governor Hurley's request for action is being framed.

How the department of agriculture decided to cheer up Representative Edith Nourse Rogers is not unfolded.

It was all but a foregone conclusion that the federal government at this late stage could do nothing much about the high cost of meats. When meat is scarce, it is expensive; and when all has been officially done to make it scarce, little can be done to make it reasonably available again.

Crop control, hog slaughter and other reckless policies of the philosophy of planned shortage, so dear to the heart of the country's official headquarters of foodstuff provision, the department of agriculture, have made the cheaper cuts of meat a mere byword of dubious import. There is no economic substitute for exterminated livestock.

So if the government can do nothing about controlling meat prices, it is only because it has served to boost meat prices sky-high over the market basket. While the department of agriculture is engaged in framing replies to meat shortage protests, it might also consider framing a but can picture of the Three Little Pigs swathed in black, crisp, and subscribed with the succinct official legend, "Gone But Not Forgotten."

The Great Game of Politics

distrust the other meekly saying yes, yes, when they longed to say no, no. Self-preservation is not only the first law of politics—it is the second, third, fourth and fifth. All of which makes the overwhelming victory in Arkansas of Representative John E. Miller, running against Governor Bailey for the unexpired Senate term of the late Joseph T. Robinson, of special significance.

THE ISSUE seems to have been clearly drawn and well understood. Governor Bailey proclaimed himself a hundred per cent. New Dealer and Roosevelt adherent. He charged that his opponent was anti-New Deal, anti-Roosevelt and pro-Liberty League. He asserted that his election would be a slap in the face for the President and, in true breast-beater style, denounced Mr. Miller as desiring to balance the financial budget rather than the human budget. To all this Mr. Miller replied that he had voted several times against Roosevelt measures in the House, that he is now opposed to the Black-Connery wage and hour control bill, to enact which is one reason for the extra session, that he admires Mr. Roosevelt's "humanitarian aims," but reserves the right "to vote independently of Mr. Roosevelt's recommendations."

CONSIDERING these things, plus the fact that Mr. Miller ran as an independent on the ballot and his opponent had the advantage of the Democratic label in a heavily Democratic State, Mr. Miller's election by a majority of nearly two to one was quite extraordinary. So far as can be recalled this is the first occasion on which two Democrats, one a New Dealer and the other not, have run against each other. Under the circumstances, the triumph of the candidate who refused to commit himself to the Roosevelt policies, over the man who gave them all his blanket endorsement, cannot fail to be impressive.

HERETOFORE, since Mr. Roosevelt's first election, Democratic candidates have vied with each other in lauding the President and declaring their devotion. Even those who had voted against certain Roosevelt measures in Congress felt it necessary to trim when it came to their campaigns and indignantly repelled the charge that they were not for the New Deal. Mr. Miller did nothing of the kind. He simply asserted his independence and reserved the right to vote his convictions. And he is elected not as a Democrat but as an Independent, taking his place with Senator George Norris, who, after wearing the Republican label for two generations, was elected as an Independent from Nebraska last year. It will be interesting to see how Mr. Miller functions in the Senate as successor to that sturdy party wheel horse, Senator Robinson, who, having all of it, swallowed such dreadful New Deal doses and carried out so faithfully White House orders in the soundness of which he completely disbelieved. Under the circumstances the election of Mr. Miller is an illuminating political incident that may affect the psychology of the session more than a little. At any rate, no one will charge him with having ridden in on Mr. Roosevelt's coat-tails and his presence will be an immense encouragement to the nine Democratic Senators who fought the President on his court bill, who come up for renomination next spring and whose political lives the evangel of the Administration had declared forfeit. The threats seemed blood-curdling at the time but they sound like a joke now.

WHICH FOOT IS YOURS?

A—Normal Foot. B—Weak Foot. Callouses. C—Flat Foot.

Seven persons out of every ten have defective or abnormal feet. Practically all of this foot trouble has its origin in the arches of the feet.

Weak and broken down arches are very prevalent and cause untold misery and suffering. Corns, Callouses, Bunions, Crooked and Overlapping Toes, Painful Heels and Rheumatic-like pains in the feet and legs are usually the result of defective arches.

Get Pedro-graphs, like above, made of your feet on Dr. Scholl's Pedro-graph. Then be fitted with Dr. Scholl's Foot-Eazers and learn for yourself how quickly those tired, aching feet are relieved—how you can walk or stand all day without fatigue. Dr. Scholl's method is the only method that restores fallen arches gradually until normal strength and shape is restored. We carry Dr. Scholl's Foot Comfort Remedies and Appliances and can properly fit you. Come in today for a Free Foot Test.

Say Captain Apple Jack and Soda!

"Yeah, it's me. How's tricks?"

Neville Preston's frown changed to a smile. "You publicity hound. The world's greatest nests since yellow fever and smallpox were conquered! What are you doing here?

Atlantic City looked fairly good to me—up to now," he finished with a well-simulated groan of despair.

"You actors," Ames retorted. "I'd like to know how far any of you hams would get without us. We force you down the public's throat and make 'em like it. And all the thanks we get is a lot of kicks and curses." He thrust a hand across the narrow table. "Put 'er there, old pain-in-the-neck."

They exchanged the solid grip of two men who like each other.

and the director alone, will be answerable for what happens.

Unfortunately, however, the purge has so frightened people that many men are unwilling to accept positions of responsibility. Commenting on this situation as it existed in the Voroshilovgrad Locomotive factory, the newspaper "Heavy Industry" said: "Engineers and technical workers don't want to take independent decisions on any questions and always try to obtain the sanction of higher officers."

"Now most of the higher officers are trying to get rid of their responsibility."

Most interesting of all in the Third Five Year Plan will be the fate of the farmers and the peasants. According to their own newspaper accounts of arrests and denunciations, unrest exists in the Ukraine and White Russia.

"Will farmers be the one group which refuse to be collectivized—the one nut which communism cannot crack?"

This is a question many people are asking—and which the organizers of the Third Five Year Plan are probably pondering today.

Soglow Cartoons To Be Featured in Advertisements

O. Soglow, famous cartoonist of the New Yorker, Saturday Evening Post, Collier's and other popular magazines, and creator of the "Little King" and "Sentinel Louie" in the Sunday comics has been commissioned by the Richfield Oil Corp. of New York to develop a series of humorous cartoons for its fall and winter advertising on Richfield Hi-Octane Gasoline and Richlube

"All-Weather" Motor Oil. The new advertisements will be a regular feature of the Courier until Christmas bringing to readers twice a week the work of this brilliant cartoonist.

For his comedy situations Mr. Soglow has chosen for his subject the main problem of the average motorist in winter—quick starting. He has shown the various difficulties encountered by such motorists as only he can create and how they were solved once Richfield Hi-Octane Gasoline was put in the tank. It so happens that Mr. Soglow's cartoons have plenty of basis in fact. Advertised as being "Rich Because It Comes From a Rich Field," Richfield Hi-Octane Gasoline has exceptional quick-starting qualities and offers the highest anti-knock rating available without any premium in price.

The second Richfield-Soglow cartoon-ad appears today.

NEED COMPETENT PERSONS AS SCHOOL DIRECTORS

of the borough employees. The salaries of the teachers in the schools are set by the State. The curriculum in the high school is drawn up by the State. The State will not allow a teacher to be discharged only for certain reasons and incompetency is not one of them. If the teacher is so disposed after dismissal, she can appeal her case to the court. The State demands that certain departments like music and art must be taught in the schools, and school boards that refuse to comply are in danger of losing their high school certification.

All this information will reveal to the public the necessity of electing qualified men and women as directors. The day of selecting a man or woman as school director without considering his or her qualifications is passe. The large amount of money—$150,000—which they must spend each year to operate the schools, the wisdom required to successfully govern the schools without antagonism from the State, by conflicting with its restrictions, and the sacrifices that are necessary if the director has a real desire to aid in the development of education, together with the improvement of our local schools, all show that in the selection of directors the very highest type of manhood and womanhood are required.

In the selection of Mr. Keith Rosser and Mrs. Horace N. Davis by the Republican Party, the friends of education in Bristol will have the opportunity of voting for two candidates who are unusually qualified for the office of school director. Mr. Rosser is a business man, with a broad experience in a directive capacity. He has served on the board for a year and his opinions and views upon important questions are appreciated by his co-members. Mrs. Davis was a teacher in our local schools and for several years was principal of the Jefferson Avenue building. Her wide experience in school matters makes her highly eligible for the office.

Realizing that so much is at stake in the selection of school directors, it would be well for all who are interested in the schools, and desire to maintain them at the present high standard, to vote for Mr. Rosser and Mrs. Davis. Their election will mean the continued operation of our schools upon an economical and efficient basis.

Morrisville Chamber of Commerce Wants to Increase Membership

COMMITTEES ACTIVE

MORRISVILLE, Oct. 21.—A drive for new members will be conducted by the Morrisville Chamber of Commerce during the next few months. The committee in charge consists of Raymond Johnson, Coleman Morgan, William Hohweiler and Harry M. Lair. This drive was approved by the group at its meeting at the Community House.

The commerce body also voted to endeavor to have the Pennsylvania Railroad Company use the old West Morrisville railroad yards for industrial sites.

The organization also voted to contact the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce with a view to interesting it in using the old canal bed for the laying of a water line from the Poconos to Philadelphia to furnish that city with good water. It was suggested that if such a line was laid it might be possible for Morrisville Borough to tap the line for its supply.

The question of a new bridge to take the place of the Fallsington Tunnel on the Lincoln Highway was discussed and it was reported that work was to start on the improvement last month but nothing has yet been done. The secretary was instructed to communicate with the secretary of highways with a view to learning what is going to be done in the matter.

To keep pastry boards, rolling pins and wooden bowls sweet and clean, wash thoroughly once a week and then scrub with lemon juice and allow to dry in the sun. This will bleach the boards, as well as helping to keep them sweet.

TIMELY RECIPES You Will Want to Try!

Scalloped Chicken and Oysters

Two cups cooked or canned chicken, diced; one-half pound mushroom caps, sautéed; one pint raw oysters; one cup cooked or canned rice; one cup cooked, or drained canned peas; one and one-half cups white sauce; one cup soft bread crumbs; two tablespoons melted butter or pure shortening.

Arrange the chicken, mushrooms, oysters, rice and peas in layers in large buttered casserole. Pour the white sauce over all. Top with the crumbs, mixed with the melted butter and bake in a hot oven at 425 degrees F. for 20 minutes, or until the mixture is heated and the crumbs brown. Serves six. In making the white sauce, the liquor from oysters, liquor from cooking mushroom stems in water to cover for 20 minutes, or chicken broth may be used as part of the liquid. To serve two or three, make half this recipe, as the mushroom and oyster combination should not be reheated for a second meal.

Scalloped Oysters

Three cups coarsely-rolled cracker crumbs; one quart raw oysters; one and three-fourths cups milk; three-fourths cup butter; one teaspoon salt; dash pepper; two eggs.

Use unsalted soda crackers for the crumbs. Arrange one-fourth of crumbs in bottom of greased casserole, covering with one-third of oysters. Repeat the cracker crumbs and oyster layers until all are used, having cracker crumbs on top. Scald the milk and butter together, add the salt and pepper and pour over the slightly-beaten eggs. Pour this mixture over the oysters and crumbs and bake in a moderate oven of 350 degrees F. for one hour. Serves six to eight generously.

Although it is difficult to duplicate the real baked Kentucky ham without having one of the traditional hams, aged slowly in the smokehouse for the better part of two years, the traditional method runs something like this:

The ham is soaked in water for 12 hours, after which it is boiled in fresh water for three hours, or until the end bone is loose. The outer skin is then removed. The ham is trimmed of superfluous fat.

The ham then is covered with brown sugar, or with sorghum molasses and meal and pepper and is decorated with whole cloves. Then it is baked in a slow oven for one-half hour, or until well browned.

Celery in Cream

One quart diced celery; one cup thin cream; one tablespoon butter; one-eighth teaspoon pepper; one-half teaspoon salt; dash nutmeg.

Cook the celery until very tender. Heat the cream, to which butter and seasonings have been added. Drain the cooked celery and pour the hot cream over it in the serving dish. A bit of finely-chopped parsley may be added. Save the liquor in which celery is boiled for addition to any soup stock, or to stew.

Mercedes Williams, three-year-old Rochester, N. Y., prodigy, is pictured at her typewriter, visiting relatives in New York. With an I. Q. of over 150, the girl has a knowledge equal to a person six times her age.

"Down South" Cookies

One cup shortening; two tablespoons confectioners' sugar; one cup chopped pecans; two cups flour; one teaspoon baking powder; two tablespoons ice water; one teaspoon vanilla.

Mix into a dough, roll thin and cut in tiny round cookies. Sprinkle with sugar and bake on greased cookie sheet in a moderate oven 10 minutes. These are deliciously "nutty."

Beaten Biscuits

Served with the true Southern ham of course, are beaten biscuits. The Old Virginia recipe calls for:

One quart sifted flour; one tablespoon sugar; one teaspoon baking powder; one scant teaspoon salt; one tablespoon shortening; three-fourths cup ice water. This recipe makes about 50 biscuits. The proof of the biscuits is in the beating, for this dough must be beaten until all the air is removed.

Corn Au Gratin

One cup fresh or canned corn; two egg yolks; one-half green pepper; one tablespoon minced onion; two tablespoons butter or fat; one teaspoon salt; one-eighth teaspoon paprika; one cup steamed rice; one-half cup grated cheese.

Drain the corn and chop it fine. Add to this the well-beaten egg yolks. Sauté the green pepper, minced fine, and the minced onion in the heated fat, and add to first mixture with salt and paprika. Fold the rice into the corn mixture very lightly with a fork. Turn into a greased casserole, sprinkling half the grated cheese on the mixture as a center layer and the remaining cheese on top. Bake in a very hot oven 500 degrees F. for 12 minutes.

Date Scones

This English recipe produces a cookie that is more like a date cracker. Needless to add, they are excellent with tea.

One-third cup each sugar and shortening; three cups flour; two-thirds cup chopped dates; one egg; one-half cup milk.

Mix the sugar, flour and dates. Add the milk, beaten egg and melted shortening. Pat dough thin on greased

Baked Fish Fillets

With soaring costs of meat, new fish recipes are in demand. Baked fish is more desirable for juniors than the fried form and is easy to prepare.

Dip fish fillets in salted milk (or cream), using one tablespoon of salt for each cup of milk. Dip in fine, dry bread crumbs, cornflake crumbs, or cornmeal. Arrange on greased baking sheet and sprinkle liberally with melted, pure shortening. Bake in a very hot oven for about 10 minutes. Garnish with sliced lemon and parsley.

TWO SCHOOL TEAMS IN UNDEFEATED CLASS

By Louis Tomlinson

Only two Lower Bucks County schools remain in the unbeaten class of grid aggregations as the season rolls into its halfway mark following the last week-end of play. They are Langhorne and Bristol.

Although Langhorne has the best record on paper Bristol, nevertheless, remains as the outstanding team in the Lower end of Bucks County in view of the tougher opponents on the local eleven's card than those on the mid-county outfit. At the same time the ability and strength of Coach Beck's crew cannot be overlooked for did they not tie Bristol in the season's opener? And that tilt is the only blemish (if we can call it such) on their otherwise spotless record this year. Beck's boys have three victories besides the tie with Bristol.

Bristol, on the other hand, has topped Doylestown as their outstanding achievement to date on the win side. They have also upset Bryn Athyn. But their biggest upset came on Saturday when they held a much favored Conshohocken eleven to a scoreless tie. This was the second 0-0 tie the locals have participated in to date. The Cardinals are the only club in the entire county who have yet to be scored on in any phase of the game.

While Bristol and Langhorne holds the spotlight in the undefeated class, Morrisville High has found consolation in the fact that they are the highest scorers in the entire County at the present time. They have two victories and two defeats to show for their record. When they topped the N. J. S. D. on Saturday afternoon, 26-0, they hiked their scoring total to 71 points to their opponents 28.

Meantime Coaches George Reimer and Mike DeRisi have little or nothing to show for their season's work to date. They have little to present in the scoring column and nothing whatsoever to show on the win side. However, Bensalem's record is much better than that of Fallsington's. Whereas the Owls have had 44 points scored against them, they have counter-acted with at least 21. Fallsington, on the other hand, have had no less than 47 scored against them, and have retaliated with but two counters against their opponents. These two schools, together with George School, are the only teams not having a victory to their credit as yet in the lower end of Bucks County.

The latter school dropped a 31-0 decision to Admiral Farragut last week to remain in the same class as Bensalem and Fallsington. These 31 tallies, plus the 21 scored on them in their opener with Episcopal Academy, had added 52 points against them but they have still to score on their opponents.

Newtown High scored its second victory of the year when they knocked off Fallsington last week, 14-2. It was the second victory for Tomlinson's boys in Conference frays, whereas they have dropped one. They lead the Conference with victories.

TO OPEN SEASON

The St. Ann's A. A. football team will open its home season Sunday with the Kerlyn C. C. as its opposition. Kerlyn will take the place of Pensauken. The game will be played on the "Saints" field, Jefferson avenue and Garden street.

Baltimore's Bantam Boss

By BURNLEY

Harry Jeffra
BALTIMORE'S BANTAM KING...
HE GAMBLER...
AND NOW!

THE UNDER-DOG
IN THE BETTING,
HE STABBED
ESCOBAR
SILLY!

A human embodiment of the idea of determination, little Harry Jeffra has finally attained the goal he set for himself a number of years ago.

Jeffra, a poor kid born in Baltimore of Italian and Irish parents, vowed at an early age that he would make himself financially independent. Although a frail boy and small of stature, he was athletically inclined, with a natural bent for golf and fighting. Not that Harry was a pugnacious sort, but being smaller than other kids of his own age, he had to be handy with his fists—or else!

Harry never had a chance to work at his golf enough to become a professional, though he shoots a fine game now and still talks of becoming a links pro when his ring days are over. Instead, his clever fists have brought him fame and what, to him, must seem a fortune.

Jeffra's determination to reach the top, in whatever he made his field of endeavor, can be seen in his difficult climb to the top of the bantam-weight heap.

Always the underdog in his important fights, he was conceded little chance to win the title even after he had whipped the champion, Escobar, twice in overweight bouts. With the crown on the block, Sixto was supposed to be a demon with thunder in his mitts, but Jeffra waded him look like a chump instead of a champ.

Now Baltimore boasts of another ring champion following in the footsteps of Kid Williams and Joe Dundee.

Nearly 1,000 Executed

Moscow, Oct. 21.—Total of mass executions in Soviet Russia during the past few months neared the thousand mark today as the Bolshevik regime intensified its drive against spies and wreckers.

Coinciding with shooting of 45 additional spies at Irkutsk in Siberia, there were increasing indications the government's campaign is now being directed almost exclusively against individuals suspected of espionage on Japan.

In the past, the majority of persons to suffer the extreme penalty at the hands of the Soviet firing squads have been identified loosely as "spies, schemers, counter-revolutionaries and Trotskyists," and in some cases, merely as "hoodlums."

Examine Instruments

Salt Lake City, Utah, Oct. 21.—From a battered set of instruments, airline and Department of Commerce officials today were attempting to determine the cause of the tragic United Airliner crash Sunday night, in northern Utah, with a toll of nineteen lives.

When the analysis is completed, some time this afternoon, Major R. W. Schroeder, Operations Chief for the United Airlines, and formerly Chief Inspector for the Department of Commerce, expects to make a public explanation of the crash.

New York, Oct. 21.—After a careful analysis of all available data from the scene of the crash, aviation circles today agreed that radio failure was the probable cause of the nation's worst air disaster—the death of 19 persons in United Airliner's luxury ship on Utah's Chalk Peak.

The fliers subdivided the radio theory into two classifications: 1. Failure of all radio apparatus within the plane. 2. A "shifting" radio beam marking the air way.

DAVIS TOSSES DUSEK TWICE IN FEATURE BOUT

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 21.—In an uproarious bout devoid of the fine art of wrestling but packed with genuine action and thrills, Karl Davis, a Southern gentleman without Southern hospitality, twice tossed the belligerent Wally Dusek last night in the feature match at the Arena.

Dusek had Davis flat on his back just 50 seconds after the opening gun, but took the worst of things from then on. After bowling his foe over a half-dozen times, Dusek floated a stout forearm blow on Davis' chin and then fell on his prone foe for the opening fall.

Davis quickly recovered, however, and informed Referee Tommy Parsonnet that he was prepared to carry on without the usual 10-minute rest. Then began as wild a brawl as has been seen at the Arena in many a moon. The routine headlocks, half-nelsons and scissors holds were forgotten. Bull-like rushes and hefty forearm blows were the order of the night. Hair-pulling, too, was indulged in without restraint. The wrestlers were in and out of the ring so often that the ringsiders expended considerable energy scurrying to safety or helping the unfortunate grapplers back in the ring. Finally, after 19:29 minutes of brawling, Davies planted a series of forearm blows on Wally's jaw and fell on his opponent for the fall.

The third fall was just as interesting. Neither wrestler asked any quarter or gave any. In fact, Referee Parsonnet, himself, was tumbling about the ring from a shove or wild kick a good part of the time.

The deciding fall was practically a repetition of the second. When Dusek became groggy from being "cooked" on the skull, Davis dropped on him for the pin. The final fall lasted eight minutes.

In another corking bout, Mayes McLain dropped the decision to Rebel Bob Russell after 16 minutes. Jack Kennedy, an importation from the West Coast, disposed of Jake Patterson, much to the delight of the fans, while in the opening setto, Bobby Roberts and Jack Holland tugged to an interesting draw.
